Class Will

"All that lives must die, Passing through nature to eternity."

The class of 1921 in passing wills its unblemished record and personal effects to the classes to come.

George Norrby goes into the Great Unknown with a sigh of relief because he will not have to preside at any more turbulent meetings. A rich inheritance is in store for the next Student Body President, however, as George leaves him all of his estate: a perfect pompadour, a winning smile, and a score of female admirers, besides the dignity of the office.

Raymond Norberg leaves as silently as he came. William Mengendoth, his sole heir, comes into possession of a quiet, dignified nature and an abundance of modesty and bashfulness.

Ethel King trips out gracefully with nary a backward look, laying behind her present style of hairdress, for she will soon find a new one. Vivian Haller is the heir and we hope that she may enjoy her legacy.

Theodore Votaw extricates himself from the embraces of the Chemistry and Physics teachers and seeks haunts of his own. He wills and bequeaths his surplus plots for stories and poems and a dreamy, quiet nature to Russell Lowrey.

Crash—Bang—Slam! That's Elvera Satterberg taking her leave. She wills her prowess in athletics and her ability to "get there" to Irene Williamson.

"Goodbye, Kids," says Helen Olson as she waves farewell. She leaves her ability to bluff to Barbara Bailey. We hope that Barbara will profit thereby.

Olive Holt turns away with a delighted "Thank goodness, it's over with." She leaves a lot of regular kid ambitions to Mathew Gagan. Mathew will find himself wanting to be a lawyer, police court judge, college professor, civil engineer, architect, home maker, and movie star all at once.

Edgar Rea is going back to the soil. He wills a vast knowledge of farm economics and animal husbandry to Donald Jacobsen.

Lucile McKeen and Olive Holt will the keys of the Joke Box and the responsibility of censoring all jokes to the assistant editors of the 1922 Gold Bug, and also the work of writing a class will if said assistants be foolhardy enough to undertake the task.

Edna Norrby, Ruth Rosendahl and Juliet Fridolfs walk out with their arms about one another. They leave their unfinished quarrels and troubles to Ina Bach, Edla Peterson and Anna Nelson.

Helen Jorgensen and Ethel King reluctantly leave their tennis racquets to Myrtle Wilen and Eunice Morrison.

Mildred Brandvig wends her weary way down the lane, leaving her slow, quiet nature to Donsilla Stevens.

Doris McKeen expires with a glow of anticipation in her brown eyes as she sighs, "What's next, I wonder?" She wills her ability as an artist to Alpheus Soderberg.

Mary Diran goes beyond with nary a fear as she realizes that whatever the future may hold it can be no worse than public speaking and debating. She wills her ability in argumentation to Edwin Jorgensen.

Helen Westlund and Evangeline Kling bid their friends a fond farewell and depart to greater fields of endeavor. They will their ability to entertain by singing and playing to Henry Swanson and Malcolm Nelson.

With relief Edith Lindberg leaves the bookshop where she has toiled for two long years. She wills her knowledge and experience in bookshop matters to Florence Lindahl.

Myrtle Morine sighs, "At last," and goes forth a satisfied being. She leaves her capacity for leadership to Eugene Lindberg.

Jennie Hammarsten leaves with a winning smile of affectionate love and wills the surplus to Wilma Edgar.

Fritz Hagglund leaves without a word and wills his knowledge of science and mathematics to Edna Hawkinson.

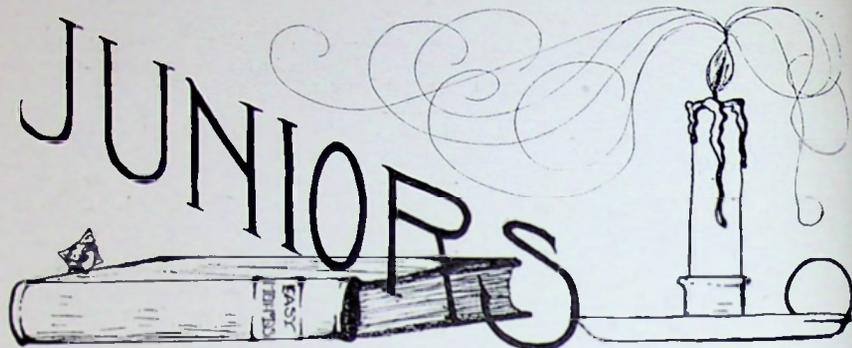

Theodore Torosian wills his ability to make speeches in assembly meetings to Ella Horn.

George Giragossiantz wills his knowledge of socialism and his unfinished work of reforming the world to Rudolph Rasmussen.

Minnette Peterson embarks for a distant sphere, leaving her talent for music to John Anderson.

Mildred Benson leaves satisfied that she has earned more credits than any other Senior. She wills her three extra ones to Pearl Anderson.

Mildred Anderson "folds her tent like the Arabs, and as silently steals away."

Well, I guess.

Juniors, Juniors—Yes, yes!

JUNIOR ACTIVITIES.

The Jolly Juniors opened their social season by giving an apron and overall party in the drawing room on November 24th which at the last minute proved to be a farewell party for Mary Gilbert, who was moving away. The boys, demonstrating their grief over Mary's departure, came in their Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes. Since all who did not come in aprons or overalls were fined, a tidy sum was obtained. The girls looked like children with their hair down their backs. At a late hour delicious refreshments were served, and the Juniors departed for their Thanksgiving vacation.

A Christmas party was planned for December 2nd as a farewell party for Edna Anderson, but was not given as school closed a week earlier than we had expected.

The Juniors were second in the annual ticket selling contest last fall, and the Freshmen third, so according to agreement, the Freshmen entertained on February 18th. Refreshments were served at an early hour so the Freshmen would not lose any sleep, and every one voted the party a success.

The Juniors are planning a picnic or mountain trip for later in the season when fine weather is assured.

Miss Jillson, the class advisor and teacher, has invited the Juniors to her home in Dinuba for a social time some evening early in April. A jolly time is anticipated by all.

Coming events cast their shadow before! The Junior Jollies of 1921 will be the big event of the school year in which every Junior will take a prominent part in making the Jollies a success.

Another coming event is the usual Junior-Senior Reception, which the Juniors are striving earnestly to make the social event of the year.

The Juniors were also the Tennis Champions of the school, their team being Carl Bromark and Masaru Nakamura. Hurrah for Kaki and Massa!

Not only the Juniors, but the whole school are proud of the three Juniors on the debating team who won the sectional championship for the school. They are Myrtle Wilett, Eunice Morrison and Donald Jacobsen. Later Francis Anderson was placed on the team to debate with Fresno.

Thus ends the tale of a busy, happy and all-round successful year for the Juniors.

THE SPIRIT OF OUR CLASS.

The spirit of our class is bright,
Bright and happy as a light;
All the world seems fair and gay,
When we come to school each day.

Our class is full of life and joy,
With pleasure for each girl and boy,
'Tis here we have our greatest fun
When we know our work is done.

Ex'ry day in all the year
We do our work with loads of cheer;
For we know that when we're done
We will have our greatest fun.

We know that all the best of pleasure
Comes to us in its fullest measure
When we know we did not shirk
The things which are our daily work.

—Harold Strand.

CLASS ACTIVITIES.

The first inter-class event of the year in which the Sophomores took part was basketball. In this event the Sophomores easily won the championship of the school. The next event was baseball, in which the Sophomores were again victorious. The other classes have now given up all hope of ever defeating the invincible Sophomores.

At the beginning of the year the Sophomores entertained the student body at a party given at the High School. There was a large crowd present and every one spent a very enjoyable evening. Shortly after Christmas the Sophomores gave a party in honor of the Seniors. This party was also held at the High School. The evening was spent pleasantly by playing various games. Refreshments were served at a late hour and the party broke up with every one in the best of spirits.

In March the Sophomores had a picnic at Three Rivers. The crowd arrived a little after eleven. After a delicious lunch we went on a short hike up to a power house dam. Towards evening the party started homeward, tired but very happy.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

One day there entered through the doors
Of Kingsburg Union High
A mighty mob of students
With the motto, "Do or die."
They said to one another
As they wandered through the Hall,
"I wonder if we'll have a chance
At Tennis or base ball."
Then came the awesome teachers,
And they heard a Horn give forth a blast—
They ran with all their might.
One bumped against a Linden,
One stuck in the Clay,
Another hit a Meyer
And an Axel one did slay.
But again the Reed was sounded
And they returned to school,
There was many a Madson
At the way they had been fooled.

CLASS NOTES.

Freshmen! Think what the word means and you'll know what we are. We are just a large body of about eighty enthusiastic, fun-loving pupils. If you really want to see the Freshmen in their natural state peep in at their class meetings. As two of our presidents,

Frank Loomis and Hershah Davenport, have moved away this year, leaving us part of the time without a leader, our meetings have been rather upset and lively. Now that we have a permanent president we hope to have more orderly class meetings, yet we wish never to lose our enthusiasm and pep.

On the night of October the fifteenth the Freshmen were invited to a reception. This reception was given to initiate us into the Student Body. Much torturing was administered and many scary acts were done to us poor Freshmen, yet we express our thanks to the "Body" for giving us such an enjoyable time.

February the 18th the Freshmen gave the Juniors a forfeit party, because the Juniors were luckily victorious over us in selling the most Annuals. It was said that the party was a success; how could it be otherwise when the Freshmen were running it? Sad to relate, though, a few of the Freshy boys disgraced themselves by picking out the biggest pieces of cake and dishes of ice cream.

Another "red letter" day was the second of March, when our girls' baseball team won a victory over the Juniors. It was an exciting game and well won, with a score of 15-4. A game was also played February 28th when our boys' baseball team played against the Sophs. Both teams played their best, with the result that the Sophs won with a score of 10-1. Our girls' team also played against the Juniors, Sophs and Seniors in basketball and beat the Juniors and Sophs, but got beat by the Seniors.

Not only the "red letter" days stand out important in our memories, but other days of work and play are dear to us in our recollection. We shall always remember the happy, carefree Freshman days.

Three Cheers

Three cheers for the boy who scorns to fall
On the rugged road of life;
Who means to reach the far off goal,
And conquer his troubles and strife.
Whose only watchword is "Persevere,"
Mated with hope and content;
Who hangs not his head in sorrow or fear,
But ever looks to the firmament.

Three cheers for the boy undaunted still,
When his heart is sad and drear.
Who gets to the front with a sturdy will
And a smile instead of a tear.

Who works not only for himself alone,
But to help and to strengthen the weak;
Who looks on sorrow beyond his own
And is never afraid to speak.

Three cheers for the boy who tries his best,
And heeds not when things go wrong;
Who bravely tries, when he's put to the test,
Though the struggle be weary and long.

Three cheers for the workers on soil and sea
Who are doing the best they can do,
Whose purpose in life is to act and to be
Steadfast and cheerful and true.

MASARU NAKAMURA.

A Little Grease

The captain and manager of the Junior Girls' Baseball Team were in consultation at the manager's desk near the rear of the Assembly Hall. They had permission to sit together for a few minutes, and now, after almost a quarter of an hour, the teacher was casting warning glances at them.

"I'll have to go soon, Judith," the captain said, "but we've got to get another player before I leave. They've postponed, and postponed, and postponed that game for us, until now they won't postpone it any more, so we must play the Sophs this afternoon, or forfeit the championship. And we're only one player short. It's too mean."

"If it hadn't been for the flu we'd have 'em, but now the girls are all sick. Oh, if we could only get one more! Let me see—I have it. Sue! She's new, and—"

"Sue! Why, Sue couldn't play indoor baseball if she had to, or at least she wouldn't. You know how she hates Physical Ed, and when we play ball she just sits there and watches us. She won't play, so she's out of the question."

"Oh, but wait—I have an idea; we'll dress a boy up in her gym suit and hat, and have him play on the team. No one but Sue, the boy, and we two need know about it. It's easy. Sue will do anything in order to get out of Physical Ed. this afternoon, and Jack will do anything for the Junior class."

"Jack!"

"Yes, Jack. He's about the size and build of Sue, and their features are a lot alike. My brother had a wig that looks like her hair for the masquerade last night; we'll use it. With my grease paints and a little rouge, powder, and so on, we can get a complexion on him exactly like Sue's, for hers is all make-up, anyway, and who'll be the wiser?"

"I see," says the blind man. "I see." You ought to be able to pull this stunt off if any one can since your father is principal."

"Don't be so sure. He treats me the same as any other student. I wouldn't do it, only we can't let the championship slip by without a fight, and they won't postpone it any more. I'll take all the responsibility, and get everything ready, even to Jack. All you need do is leave one place open when you announce your team at one o'clock. Now, beat it, for here comes Miss Smith."

Judith went. Miss Smith came to Mary, and told her she shouldn't talk so long.

"All right. May I speak to Sue? It's very important."

"Well, yes, but don't stay more than five minutes."

"Thank you." Mary went over and sat down with Sue.

"Do you want to get out of gym this afternoon, Sue?"

"You've said it."

"You can get out of it without anyone being the wiser if you'll go home at the end of the seventh period and leave your hat here. Give me your locker key now. Don't tell anyone about this, for if you do, it might go hard with all of us."

"All? Who else?"

"Judith and Jack. We're going to fix him up like you, and put him on the team; that is, if he will do it. I'll let you know at one if he will."

"How'll he get out of it?"

"Gym! I'll give him an excuse tomorrow, and sign his mother's name. I'll say he had a date with the dentist, or something."

"You can depend on me to do my part."

"Good—I've got to go, now."

On her way to her own desk Mary passed Jack. "I've got to see you at noon," she whispered.

"Your desk—twelve-forty," he answered, and she passed on.

At noon Mary came back to school with some mysterious, bumpy packages. At twelve-forty she met Jack, and told him what she wanted. He agreed to do his part, and she gave him the gym suit and wig, and told him to be ready to be made up at three o'clock in the rest room.

"Remember the time and place. You'd better be in your gym suit, so that you won't spoil your face after it's fixed."

At three o'clock Mary entered the rest room. There was only one occupant, a girl seated in a deep arm chair with her back to the door.

"Why, where's—oh, I didn't know you," she laughed. "That costume certainly does change you. Now, let's get down to business. Here, rub some of this cream into your face."

Then she worked deftly until Jack was a perfect Sue. Just as the bell rang she gave some final instructions.

"Stay here until I come, and if anyone speaks to you, either ignore her entirely, or sneak in a very low tone. Out there you will sit on the end of the bench, and either Judith or I will sit next to you all the time. Now, watch your step!"

She hurried away, and when she came back she was in her gym suit. "Hurry and don't speak unless you must," she said. "Here's your hat. You play second."

By that time they were out to the diamond. No one recognized Jack, and all went well. The game was played fast and furiously, and Sue was the star player, as Mary had predicted. No one caught so many flies as she, and she was the only one to make a home run. In spite of this advantage of the Juniors, the score was a tie at the end of the sixth inning.

During the first half of the seventh the Sophomores failed to score, and the Juniors came in determined to do or die. The first two up struck out, and the Sophomores had a faint ray of hope, for the next up was the worst player on the Junior nine. But the pitcher was nervous, and walked her. Then came Sue! She knocked a three-bagger, so that the other girl came home. Then pandemonium broke loose, for the Juniors had won! Every one looked for Sue to congratulate her, but Mary had rushed her out of harm's way.

All the students raved about Sue, what a wonderful player she was, and how they would put her on the school nine. Mary was nervous, for no one can leap into the limelight as Sue had done, and slip into oblivion again. She was thoughtful that night at dinner. When the dishes were done she went to her room and tried to study, but somehow or other she couldn't, for her mind always jumped back to the events of the afternoon. Finally she gave up, and went to bed.

Downstairs her parents, after discussing her strange actions, decided she had played too hard that afternoon, and was worn out, and let it go at that. They even forgot it for a while.

Mrs. McCarter remembered it again, however, when she awoke after midnight and heard Mary muttering and moaning in her sleep. She went in to see what was wrong. As she opened the door she heard Mary talking.

"Judith, I wish we'd never done it. I'd never have thought of it if I hadn't been so good at making folks up—Jack, why didn't you say no!—Oh! Sue! I wish we had never done it. We'll be suspended. Oh-h-h-h-h—"

Mrs. McCarter went back to bed, wondering what mischief Mary had been into, for she knew that her daughter had taken her grease paints and the wig back to school that afternoon.

The next morning at breakfast, although she was ravenously hungry, Mary wouldn't eat much. When she thought her lack of appetite had made an impression on her parents, she asked: "D-do I have to go to school today?"

"Yes," her father answered, so she ate a big breakfast, for she knew it wouldn't do her any good to go without it.

At school a general assembly was called. Mr. McCarter made a speech denouncing deception, and suddenly, when every one was convinced that deception was the worst of all crimes, he stopped in the middle of a sentence, and said, "I wish to see the following pupils in the office immediately: Mary McCarter, Judith Hanson, Sue Porter, and John Henry. The rest of you will pass to your first period classes."

When he was in the office facing the embarrassed pupils, he said, "I suppose you know that you were called in here because of that little episode yesterday afternoon. I have thought the matter over, and decided that suspension for two weeks was the only fit punishment for such a crime—"

"I knew it," moaned Mary.

"However, since we have lost so much time on account of the dn, I think this a little too stringent. Instead, Sue, since you have so little to do with this, you will only have to make up five periods of gymnasium work. Mary and Judith should be taken from the team, but we will let that pass. They must wear handkerchiefs tied on their mouths for two weeks as a sign that they talk too much. Jack, it's hard on you to make you take the worst of the punishment, but you are to wear Sue's gym suit here at school today and tomorrow. Of course, your face will be made up as it was last night. I'll admit you fooled me, and that I wouldn't have known but that it was Sue, had not Mrs. McCarter heard Mary talking in her sleep about it. She told me what she had heard, this made me suspicious, and I am sure that my suspicions are well founded.

"Mary must make you up in front of the student body both days, and she must tell the whole plot to the students just before or as she does it. Now get ready."

When Jack was in the gym suit and the handkerchiefs were in place, the bells for a general assembly were rung.

Mr. McCarter rose to make an announcement. "You all know the outcome of yesterday's game, and not a few of you were surprised when you saw that the Juniors had won. Mary McCarter will now explain and illustrate how it happened that the Juniors won."

Mary came on the stage, followed by the other three. She loosened her handkerchief so that she could speak easily, and stood there silently. To her it seemed that Time was dead, and eternity was dying before she finally managed to speak. She told haltingly, while all four flushed with embarrassment, of the necessity for another player, and of the resulting plot. When she got as far as the make-up of Jack she turned to him, rubbed cold cream on his face, and covered it all, even his eyebrows, with flesh colored grease paint. A touch of rouge here and there, painted eyebrows like Sue's, and the wig completed her work. Again she turned to her audience. The open mouths and the staring eyes told her that her work was excellent. She went on with her story, telling how they had been found out, and of the various punishments. When she reached the end of her story she stood on the platform growing more embarrassed every minute. She changed from one foot to the other, and then back again. Then, as in a dream, she heard her father speaking. Relief! But what was he saying!

"No, the Juniors did not play square, but neither were they treated fairly, as more than half of both their first and second teams were absent, and only one of the Sophomores was out. So we will give them all another chance. Two weeks from this afternoon the interclass baseball championship game will be played between the Sophomore and Junior girls. Sue, of course, will not play, but Judith and Mary may if they wish. Pass to your second period classes."

"Well," said Mary to Judith, "it worked, but not in the way I expected. We got our postponement, and weren't suspended. Oh, merciful Mercy! aren't you glad!" She fastened the handkerchief securely around her mouth, and went to her class in English III.

Student Body Notes

The first meeting of our Student Body was held September 28th. The following officers were elected:

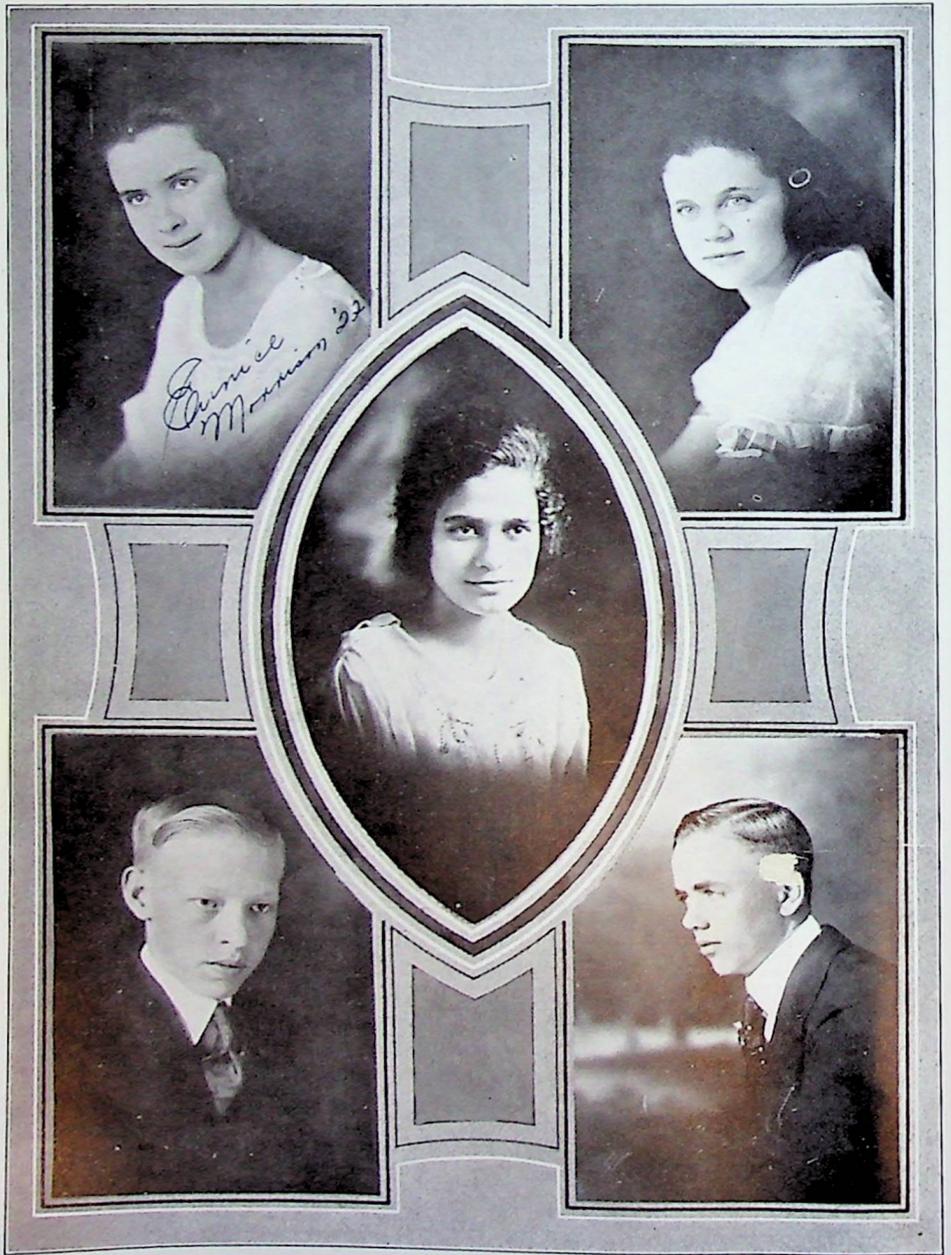

GEORGE NORRBY	- - - - -	President
MINNETTE PETERSON	- - - - -	Vice-President
THEODORE VOTAW	- - - - -	Secretary and Treasurer
FRANCIS ANDERSON	- - - - -	Purchasing Agent
MASARU NAKAMURA	- - - - -	Athletic Manager
MYRTLE WILEN	- - - - -	Girls' Yell Leader
BEN DANIELSON	- - - - -	Boys' Yell Leader
RAYMOND NORBERG	- - - - -	Sergeant-at-Arms

One of the biggest responsibilities that the Student Body undertook this year was the purchase of a new piano for the assembly hall. Through the co-operation of the class of 1918, which turned over a $100 Liberty Bond, and the class of 1920, which started the piano fund last year with a contribution of $138, we have made two payments on the piano. A $50 Liberty Bond purchased by the Student Body Book Shop three years ago was also used in making the payments.

The Occidental College Glee Club gave an entertainment in the High School on Wednesday evening, March 23rd, under the auspices of the Student Body. The program consisted of songs, humorous readings, and instrumental music.

DEBATING

For the last two years Fresno County has debated the world's problems without a word from Kingsburg. But this year the Public Speaking Class answered a call for debaters, held its try-outs, and produced a team which has made Fresno County realize that Kingsburg High School is on the map in forensics as well as in athletics. The proposition they debated was: "Resolved, That Ireland Should Be an Independent Nation." Mary Diran and Donald Jacobson upheld the affirmative, and Eunice Morrison and Myrtle Wilen supported the negative. The splendid work of each member of the teams resulted in victory and a Division Championship for Kingsburg High School.

On February 16th Kingsburg held a simultaneous debate with Reedley. The negative remained at home and the affirmative went to Reedley. A loyal Student Body supported the team at home. Ethel King proved an efficient chairman, and in order that the debaters might have a chance to adjust themselves to the new surroundings, Geraldine Renfrow read "The Raggedy Man." While the judges were making their decisions, Henry Bishop rendered a musical reading entitled, "Old Friend Wife." The result of the debate was a victory for K. J. U. H. S.

The teams again proved their ability in the debates held with Easton on the afternoon of February 23rd, when Easton's affirmative came to Kingsburg, and our affirmative went to Easton.

On March 3rd Kingsburg debated with Fowler High at Selma. Two High School trucks and several machines transported a very loyal Student Body to the Selma High School. Their support helped Eunice and Myrtle to win the debate. Fowler had up to this time considered herself Division Champion and a candidate for the Fresno County Championship. But, instead, Kingsburg will on May 11th debate Fresno High for that honor. The proposition will be, "Resolved, That the United States Should Prohibit Immigration for Four Years." Mary Diran and Donald Jacobson will uphold the affirmative and, Eunice Morrison and Francis Anderson the negative.

On April 15th a practice debate will be held with Selma.

"The Gold Bug" extends to them its best wishes for success.

Rah! Rah! Debaters!

TO IRELAND.

I am dying, Ireland, dying,
And it's all because of you;
For hard I've tried to defend you
And your acts as best I knew.

I've dug in every library
Far as forty miles from here;
I found some glorious material—
Alas! none my points came near.

I've worked from seven every morning
Till eleven every night;
My throat in flannels, my head in ice,
But proof ne'er came in sight.

Hard I've worked 'til the doctor said
I had the Spanish 'flu,"
So now I'm dying, Ireland, dying,
And it's all because of you.

—Geraldine Renfrow.

Operetta

On the evening of April 15, 1921, an interesting musical feature, an operetta, "Love Pirates of Hawaii," was given by the chorus and music classes. The following is the cast of the operetta:

Dorothy Dear.....	ELNA CARLSON	Daughter of a Plantation Manager
Miss Primer.....	HAZEL LINDQUIST	Teacher of Hawaiian Private School
Lehua—EUNICE MORRISON	} Hawaiian Girls
Kaulani—MYRTLE WILEN
Liliuoc—GERTRUDE GROFF
Maile—HELEN KERN
Billy Wood.....	RAYMOND NORBERG	Lieutenant on U. S. Cruiser
Pirate Chief.....	PAUL KLING	A Heartless Pirate
Scary.....	BEN DANIELSON	A Pirate
Chorus of Hawaiian Girls	} Members of Chorus
Chorus of Pirates
Accompanist	MINNETTE PETERSON
Director	MRS. WESTON
Property Manager.....	MISS WEIHE
Business Manager.....	MISS MCCREARY

The High School orchestra furnished the music for the operetta, outside talent assisting.

Camp Fire Girls

The Camp Fire began its organization among the Junior girls March 17, 1920, under the name of The Jolly Junior Camp Fire Girls. The first year there were thirteen members besides the guardian, Miss Leader. The second year two of the members left school and therefore could not be members of our Camp Fire, but another member was taken in and initiated December 13th, thus making the number at present twelve.

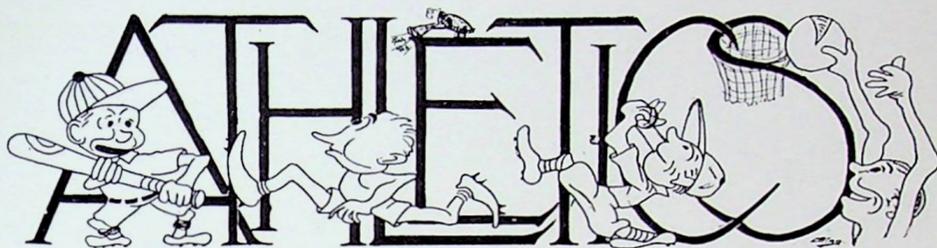

Since the girls are no longer Juniors they voted to change their name to The Senior Camp Fire Girls.

During the first year the girls planned a hike to the railroad bridge south of Kingsburg. This plan was carried out and the members had a most enjoyable picnic.

In their Senior year the girls had an initiation meeting at the home of one of the members, Edna Norrby. All were present except one, who was absent on account of illness. This time also the girls had a good time.

The Camp Fire Girls have made and sold candy to pay for their costumes, which have now arrived, and will soon make their appearance at a special ceremonial meeting.

The Senior girls expect later in the term to take in members from the other classes to prolong this organization in the High School.

Boys' Baseball

The boys, with Mr. Gilbert as their coach, have organized a good baseball team.

Those representing our team are: Reymond Rapp, c.; Paul Kling, p.; William Swanson, 1st b.; George Larson, 2nd b.; Ben Danielson, 3rd b.; Masura Nakamura, s.s.; Russell Lowrey, r.f.; Clarence Foster, l.f.; Frank Loomis, c.f.

The substitutes are Forest Anderson, Frank Hanson, Stine Elander and Walton Sawyers.

We lost a game with Selma with a score of 7 to 2, and a game with Fowler with a score of 14 to 1, and won a game with Laton with a score of 6 to 2.

The Team's Work This Year

The boys' basketball team made a successful showing this year. The team work and the team spirit were excellent. The new players on our team were: Fritz Hagglund, Harold Peterson, George Norrby and Clarence Foster. George Larson, Raymond Rapp and Masaru Nakamura, our old players, were the main supporters of the team and they were seen in action in every game. It was thought for a while that our boys would have the championship of our division, but Fowler defeated us. The line-up of the team is as follows: George Larson, captain; Masaru Nakamura and George Larson, forwards; Raymond Rapp and George Norrby, guards; Fritz Hagglund, center; substitutes—Harold Peterson, guard; Clarence Foster, forward.

The results from the practice games are as follows:

Kingsburg-Laton game—at Laton—Kingsburg, 17; Laton, 13.
 Kingsburg-Corcoran game—at Corcoran—Corcoran, 27; Kingsburg, 9.
 Kingsburg-Caruthers game—at Caruthers—Kingsburg, 35; Caruthers, 9.
 Kingsburg-Parlier game—at home—Kingsburg, 32; Parlier, 28.
 Caruthers-Kingsburg game—at home—The score was 17 to 7 in favor of Kingsburg.
 Corcoran-Kingsburg game—at home—The score was 48 to 16 in favor of Corcoran.
 Parlier-Kingsburg game—at home—The score was 22 to 14 in favor of the home team.

The results from the scheduled games are as follows:

Easton-Kingsburg game—at Easton—Kingsburg, 48; Easton, 17.
 Fowler-Kingsburg game—at Fowler—Fowler, 29; Kingsburg, 25.
 Reedley-Kingsburg game—at home—Kingsburg, 16; Reedley, 15.

The games up to this point left a tie between Kingsburg and Fowler. The final game between Fowler and Kingsburg was played on neutral ground at Selma. Our boys played hard through the whole game, but Fowler carried off the victory with a score of 28 to 13.

The Girls' Team

The basketball competition between the Kingsburg High School girls and the girls of other schools has just started within the last two years. We lost about three weeks of school and as a consequence had very little practice. Though we were not successful from the score point of view, we gained much in social good time.

At every game played at home an enjoyable lunch was served to both boys and girls of the home and visiting teams.

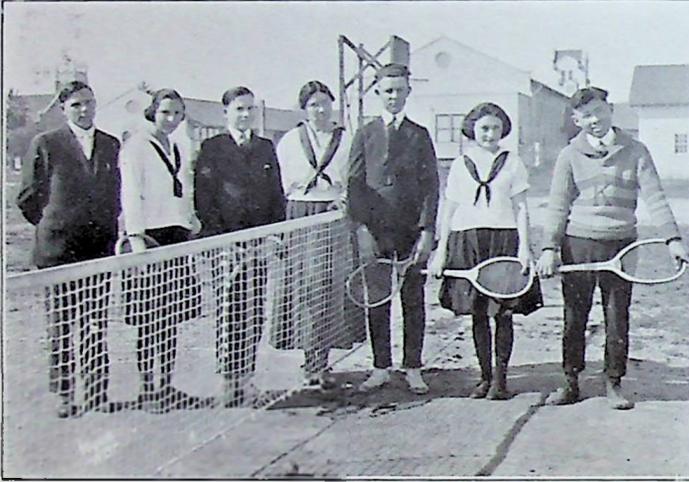

The line-up of the girls team is as follows: Ella Horn and Elvera Satterburg, forwards; Selma Alfvig, Edna Norrby and Helen Kern, guards; Myrtle Wilen (captain) and Verna Norrby running centers; Florence Nelson, jumping center; substitutes—Mildred Peterson, guard, and Francis Curtis, forward.

We defeated Caruthers girls at two practice games, one at home and one at Caruthers.
Kingsburg-Caruthers game—at home—Score 10 to 0.
Kingsburg-Caruthers game—at Caruthers—Score 8 to 6.

The results for the scheduled games are as follows:
Fowler forfeited her game to us.
Kingsburg-Easton game—at Easton—Score 36 to 4 in Easton's favor.
Kingsburg-Reedley game—at home—Score 22 to 14 in Reedley's favor.

TENNIS

A great deal of interest has been taken in tennis and many more are playing this term than previously.

We had two sets of tournaments this year, one in the fall and one in the spring.

Our fall tournaments were played with Fowler, Easton and Reedley. Though we were not victors in these games, we won several events of the games.

The players representing our team are: Masaru Nakamura, Ethel King, George Norrby, Helen Jorgenson, Carl Bromark and Mathew Gagan.

Miss Leader and Mr. Thun deserve much credit for their untiring efforts in coaching us and we hope another year will see us more victorious.

Girls' Baseball

A group of girls organized a baseball squad out of which first and second teams were chosen.

Edna Norrby was chosen captain. The line-up for the first team is as follows: Selma Alving, c.; Ethel Smith, p.; Ella Horn, 1st b.; Edna Norrby, 2nd b.; Jennie Hammersten, 3rd b.; Francis Curtis, s.s.; Artless Ahlott, s.s.; Verna Norrby, 1.f.; Mildred Peterson, r.f.; and Elvera Satterburg, c.f.

At the time of this write-up we have played two games, defeating Fowler with a score of 41 to 8, and also defeating Laton with a score of 36 to 5.

AGRICULTURE CLASS

After a long struggle to keep her boys' class unmolested by girls, Miss Veazey is obliged to admit one.

Miss V. (sadly)—Well, boys, the blow has fallen; the invasion of the "Hons" has begun.
Frank Hanson (hospitably)—'S all right; can't you furnish us one apiece?

Miss Cessna (to history class)—Who can tell me where the Samoan Islands are?

Ray Norberg—In the ocean.

Miss Cessna—You are very bright.

Ray—Yes, my father calls me son.

Violets are blue,
Roses are red,
And so is the hair
On Gunnar's head.

Mrs. Weston (looking at a monkey wrench)—Oh, yes, that's a thing you unwind nuts with; what do you call it?

FRESHMAN YELL.

Rah! Rah! Rah!
Ma! Ma! Ma!
Pa! Pa! Pa!
Help!

George Giragossiantz—I want reform! I want government reform! I want labor reform! I want—

Voice—Chloroform!

Mr. Thun is visiting with Miss Hawk at nine P. M.

Mr. Thun—I guess I better go home and go to bed. At nine-five P. M. Mr. Thun is heard playing upon his saxophone.

Miss Hawk—My goodness, but Mr. Thun snores loud!

FEATURE BOOKS.

The House of Bondage—K. J. U. H. S.
Little Women—Miss Cessna, Miss Veazey.
A Person of Some Importance—Henry Bishop (?)
The Boss—T. O. Renfrow.
The Twins—Paul and Stine.
The Crisis—Exes.
Old Curiosity Shop—Miss Cessna's handbag.

Mr. Thun to Biology Class—I'm sorry we can't have the experiment planned for today; I had some brains last night, but they were spoiled this morning.

Mr. Alcorn lets slip a squash which he is carrying, picks it up by the neck, and remarks to Miss Hawk, "The neck is the best place to put your arm around. Blushes furiously and adds, "Of a squash, I mean!"

Mrs. Weston (to Raymond Norberg, who has broken his shoulder)—How is your shoulder getting along, Ray?

Ray—Oh, all right! I can drive a machine with one hand now.

Miss Leader—Heads up; chin in; shoulders back; and legs flat on the floor!

Johnny on a wood pile.

Johnny on a fence.

Johnny got a hair-cut for fifteen cents!

(Looks like it, too.)

Miss Cessna insists that the early pioneers all "went west."

Mr. Renfrow (in assembly)—Are there any other announcements?

Miss Hawk (coming forward)—No, only that I want all the girls in Physical Training to come out dressed.

"Mother, may I a-riding go?"

"Yes, my sweet Lucile,

But give your friend the sound advice,

Keep one hand on the wheel."

Mr. Thun (working an example in algebra)—Is this the correct answer, Frank?

Frank H. (absently)—Yes, ma'am.

Mr. Thun—I would rather have you call me Sir, Frank.

Frank H. (absently)—Yes, ma'am.

Miss Hawk—Students should be like postage stamps and stick till they get there.

A Bright Senior—But stamps have to be licked before they stick.

One little Freshie

To the Joke Box did run,

Dropped in a penny

And waited for gum.

Miss Leader—What makes the sea so salty,

T. Torossian—I refer you to Anderson's Fairy Tales.

It has been said that all great men die young.

We heard Alpheus say that he was beginning to feel sick.

HIST!

On a table in the Bugology Room
Where many an insect meets his doom,
There is a small snake of the water kind make
Who has a bad habit of crawling out,
Which makes the girls scream and the boys run about.
The boys, gaining courage, approach cautiously.
The snake gets mad and hisses viciously.
The girls then scream and the boys run away,
Mr. Thun grabs the snake and thus saves the day.

LEROY CEDERBERG.

IN MUSIC CLASS.

Mrs. Weston—When I call the roll I want all those who are absent today but were here yesterday to answer present.

Miss Hawk hums a dreamy tune as she watches one of the "Profs" walk down the hall, and then remarks, "I just love that little 'Thun.'" Sequel: Miss Hawk and Mr. Thun get their mail in the same box.

There was a brave man named Tater
Who said, "O, this furnace I hater!
I slave and I toil,
She won't take her oil."
And thus did our Tater berater.

To a man best known as T. O.
A troubled student did go,
But his spirit was cheered
When these words he heered,
"Let me tell you a joke that I know."

English Teacher: "So you use slang?"
New Student: "Nix; my maw would biff me on the bun if I ever made a stab at any of that dope."

Giggles for sale.
Ina Bach.

Junior—"Are you fond of corn on the ear?"
Bonehead Freshie—"I don't know; I never had one there."

Teacher to Edwin Jorgensen—"Why don't you try following in the footsteps of some of the upper classmen?"
Edwin—"I did; I followed Ben Danielson one night and he led me to Wilen's front porch."

Teacher—"And are you the oldest in the family?"
Freshman—"No, ma'am; papa and mamma are both older than I am."

Miss Weihe—"That word means 'dear' in the sense of 'expensive.'"
Ben—"Did you say that meant 'dear?'"
Miss Weihe—"Yes, Ben, but the word for 'dear' that you want is 'querido.'"

A Senior girl and a Junior boy look up the Spanish word, "heso," and find that it means a kiss or a collision.
Senior Girl—"I've been in lots of collisions."
Junior Boy—"I don't doubt it a bit."

Pupil (at parliamentary drill meeting, addressing chair)—"The chair wishes to—"
Teacher (suddenly butting in)—"Do you know that you are not presiding at this meeting?"
Pupil (in melancholy tone)—"Well, in our notes you stated, 'Speak of yourself as the chair.'"

IVORY HEAD.

A woodpecker lit on a Freshman's head,
And settled down to drill.
He drilled away for several hours
But finally broke his bill.

IN BIOLOGY CLASS.

Mr. Thun (taking the roll)—You pupils are so noisy I can't hear if any one is here or not.

IN PHYSICAL TRAINING.

Miss Hawk—Loretta, why haven't you your tennis shoes on?

Loretta—Well, I lost one and I can't find the other.

NEEDS A CAN OPENER.

Mr. Thun needs a can opener for Alcorn's tin can in order to let Miss Hawk out.

Miss Weihe—The word for "sweetheart" in Spanish is "dulce corazon." You may need it some time.

Miss Cessna (in Modern History, talking of the European families)—"George, what happens when the father of the family dies?"

George—"He goes to paradise."

Girls, when I say halt, raise the foot which is on the ground up to the foot which is in the air, and remain motionless.—Bertha Leader

Miss Hawk came around to inspect the frying of French potatoes. The fat was scarce in the pan, so all the potatoes were not covered. She said: "You have a few here sticking up for the birds to peck at, that's why a hawk is around."

Miss Hawk (in Chemistry class)—"Irene, where is sulphur found?"

Irene (thinking hard)—"In nature."

Mr. Thun—How are you coming in arithmetic?

Levi Olson—O, pretty well so far. I can add all the zeros now, but I still have a hard time with the figures.

PAUL'S IDEA OF EVERY ONE.

Paul Kling—Where in the dickens is every one? There are a million girls gone!

Senior—An over ripened Freshman.

Flirt—Look at the Sophomore girls to observe the habits of the species.

Miss Hawk (in examination)—Give the rule for solving $(x + 3)(x - 4)$.

Marvin Morine—The square of the first and third next first, the fourth and second and third combined times the second and fourth.

Mr. Renfrow—Can you tell me what is meant by "divers diseases?"

Frank—Yes, sir.

Mr. Renfrow—Explain your point.

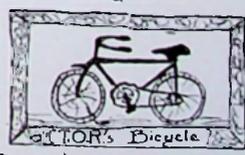

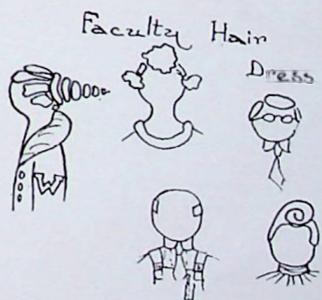

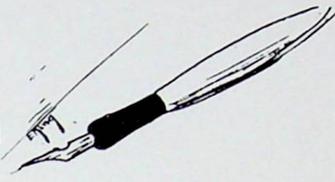

Frank—They must be fish bites.

Miss Hawk had obtained a heart and a lung from the meat market to experiment with in the Physiology class, and as she came into the room she said: "Oh, girls, Mr. Thun carried my heart and lungs to school for me."

Mr. Renfrow (in Physics, when explaining efficiency of the machine)—For instance, in the meat packing house it is said that the efficiency is so great that they utilize everything of the hog except his "squeal."

Henry Bishop (answering intelligently)—Oh, but they use the "squeal" in the phonograph record.

ALUMNI NOTES

DEAR OLD ALUMNI: Well, here you are, gathered to greet us from near and far. Our S. O. S. you nobly heard; we asked for dope; you sent us word. We observe that some are married, while others are not; those who are tied we hope are satisfied with what they got. Those who are lone, we hope do not moan at their sad lot. Next time, we hope, beside your name, to put this: "Married? Yes! To Sarah Jane, or Ole, living on love in Paradise Lane."

In Memoriam

Ernest Duval

In life's mysterious journey we know not whither our path may be leading. How often we stop to meditate the purpose of our existence, the reason for our struggles, our sorrows and our joys, and are at a loss to comprehend. For most of us life shows only broken threads of what we have tried to be and do, and it is only at the end of all things that we may see our part in the great design. Here and there, though, one is chosen whose life shows a pattern of its own, complete in its meaning, ready in its entirety to fit into God's finished fabric. Such was the life of our teacher and friend, Mr. Duval.

The Gold Bug

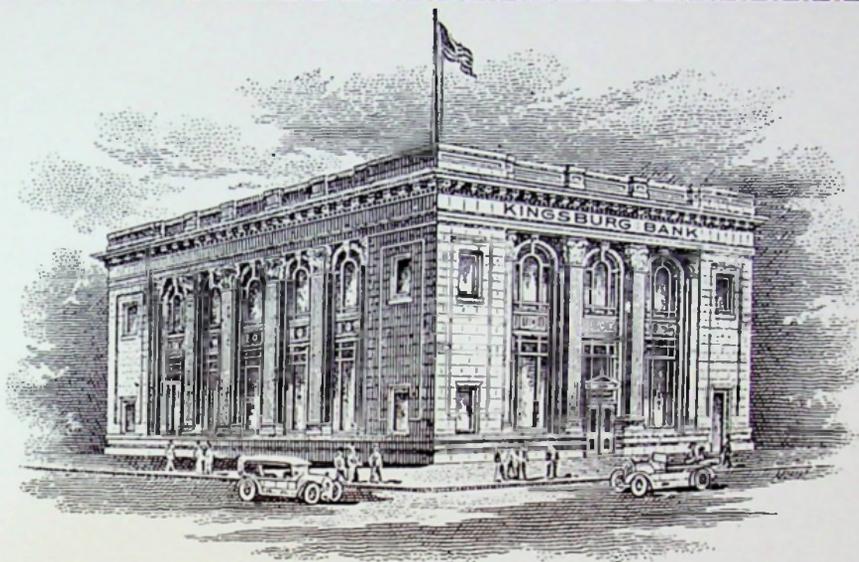

Like a merry bug, creeping free and gay,
So creeps our Gold Bug on its happy way.
We send it forth with earnest hope and prayer,
That to our many readers it may bear
A message bursting with the joy of youth,
With here and there a modicum of truth,
Like a grain of wheat hidden in a load of chaff,
You call it nonsense, yet it makes you laugh:
We call it "joshes," "jokes" and playful fun,—
Whatever we can gather 'neath the sun,
To fill our famous annual with cheer,
And make it prove to youthful hearts more dear.
Go forth, then, Gold Bug, to each true friend:
Tell each and all the message that we send—
So that it may be plain to every eye
Our greetings come from dear old Kingsburg High.

ETHEL KING.

“Gold-Bug,” “Gold-Bug,” fly to each home
And carry the message of money we loan;
“Gold-Bug,” “Gold-Bug,” creep into closets—
There hang our sign of Safety Deposits;
“Gold-Bug,” “Gold-Bug,” climb from the lowest
dale to the highest mounts
And teach the good lesson of Savings Accounts;
“Gold-Bug,” “Gold-Bug,” shout, from the lower to upper deck,
The value of using the Traveler’s Check;
“Gold-Bug,” “Gold-Bug,” for fear that some may repeat,
Tell them to use our check for receipt;
“Gold-Bug,” “Gold-Bug,” your students we thank
For allowing this ad from the KINGSBURG BANK.
